INTRODUCTION:

Article 63 of the Constitution of the Republic of Uzbekistan:

The family is the basic unit of society and has the right to protection by society and the state. Marriage is based on the voluntary consent and equality of the parties. There is a saying among our people: "Your family is peaceful, the world is peaceful." Indeed, it is. When the educational environment in the family is rationally organized, there will be peace and perfection in the society. In this regard, the strength of the family has a direct impact on the development of the country. The family is the continuity of each nation, nation, and national values this small space is the foundation of a great space called society. The well-being and prosperity of the society and the state depend on the strength of this foundation. Therefore, in the context of the ongoing reforms in our country, special attention is paid to ensuring the legal, socio-economic and spiritual protection of family interests. Also, the responsibility of the family and society in raising a comprehensively developed generation is gradually increasing. The sacredness of the family and the struggle for its stability are ingrained in the blood of our people. In the words of our President, strengthening the family, which is a spiritual fortress that ensures the continuity of generations, is today not only our main task, but also our human duty. Therefore, all good deeds in our country are carried out, first of all, to strengthen families and ensure a bright future for the younger generation. After all, as long as the family is healthy, the society is strong, and as long as the society is strong, the country is stable. From time immemorial, the family environment has played an important role in inculcating our national traditions and customs in the minds of the younger generation, in bringing them up as physically fit, spiritually mature and kind people. Strengthening the family is one of the challenges that has risen to the world level. In order to achieve the unity and strength of families, the United Nations General Assembly, at its meeting on September 20, 1993, decided to celebrate May 15 each year as International Family Day.

The Resolution of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan dated April 22, 2019 on additional measures to further strengthen the guarantees of the rights of the child was a logical continuation of the work in this direction. According to this decision, from September 1, 2019, the age of marriage for men and women is set at eighteen years. It should be noted that to date, the minimum age for marriage in our country was 18 for boys and 17 for girls. When a girl reaches puberty, reaches physical and mental maturity, and then marries, a healthy child is born. The child is the joy of every family and the hope for the future. This leads to the emergence of strong families. It is no coincidence that our country pays special attention to the upbringing of a harmoniously developed generation. Women's health and maternal and child health have been raised to the level of public policy. Today, in our society, more attention than ever is given to the family and family relationships. In today's globalized world, where the struggle for the human heart and mind is going on, it is important to bring up a mature person with strong ideological immunity. The foundation of a child's upbringing begins in the family.

Because, of course, the role and influence of the family in the formation and strengthening of the unique culture of any nation is incomparable. The reason is that the purest and purest feelings of a person, the first concepts of life are formed in the family for the first time.

A strong and stable family is necessary for the spiritual and physical development of a harmoniously developed generation. The freedom of society from evil and corruption depends first and foremost on the peace, harmony and harmony of the family. Today, rapid changes, along with all areas, require the analysis of the mahalla and its management system, socio-political, economic and spiritual activities on the basis of new criteria. One of the important tasks is the formation of a new structure of the governing body that meets the requirements of the times, the effective organization of its office system. In this regard, the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan signed a decree on February 3, 2017 in the new edition on measures to further improve the Mahalla Institute. Also, in the 1st priority area of the Action Strategy for the five priority areas of development of the Republic of Uzbekistan for 2017-2021, great importance is attached to increasing the role and effectiveness of the Mahalla Institute in public administration. On February 18, the President of Uzbekistan signed a decree "On measures to improve the socio-spiritual environment in society, further support the institution of the community and bring the system of work with families and women to a new level."

The mahalla has long been recognized in our country as a place of peace, humanity, kindness, tolerance, a source of education, a place of national values inherited from our ancestors, a way of life and thinking of our people. In our country, special attention is paid to the development of this system of small-scale management of citizens, the further enhancement of their status. In this regard, the role and importance of the mahalla, which is a reflection of the life of the people in the preservation of our national values, beliefs and thinking, traditions and customs, is incomparable.

The First President of the Republic of Uzbekistan I.A. Karimov said that we strive to preserve our spiritual life, national consciousness and values, beliefs and thinking, traditions and customs, to raise our spiritual world. We have a good idea that it is directly related to expansion. In this way, we have undoubtedly made a huge step towards building a free civil society, which is our noble goal. Today, the mahalla, as a spiritual and educational institution, makes a worthy contribution to the democratic development of society and the state.
