

POSITIVE MECHANISMS OF ENHANCING PRODUCTIVITY OF EDUCATION QUALITY

Abdullaeva Mukhayo Iskandarovna

Older teacher in the department of “Methodology of Socio-Economic Sciences”, Bukhara Regional Centre for Training and Retraining of Public Education Staff.

Tel: +998914114149, mukhayo.abdullaeva@mail.com

Abstract:

The article discusses the topics of creation of modern and proper system in nurture and education, importance of responsibility of parents and their collaboration with teachers, using foreign experience in tutoring, significance of national traditions and habits in nurturing.

Key words: Innovation, development, education, nurture, healthy young generation, school, family, neighbourhood, community, international experience.

Introduction

Education and nurture are twin concepts which complete one another and can't live without one another. It is also important to mention that idealism which is the purest and the most supreme trait, is shared via nurture and education. Of course, the idealism of a person is indicated by the level of his/her education and nurture. The very education and nurture present the basis of my both scientific and creative work. In recent years, on the same line with other spheres, many innovations are being made in the education sphere. As the priority in the policy of the country, decent part of the government budget is being spent to this very sphere which we cannot see in the policy of other countries and that is why it would not be an exaggeration to say that it is a special quality of Uzbek nation.

“The one important topic has always been under many discussions is politeness, behavior and overall outlook of our youth. The world is changing very fast. And who is most impacted by these changes around the globe? The answer is the youth. Let the youth be in balance with the requirements of their own time. But they should never forget their origins.

They should always ask themselves questions such as, who are we, who are our ancestors? And how we can achieve this? Only way is through nurture, nurture and again nurture” states our President.

The above stated tasks place great responsibility on schools, families, neighborhoods and whole communities. Developments initiated by the government in all aspects of education: enhancing the system of pre-school, middle school, high schools and universities, construction of new buildings and reconstruction of old ones will undoubtedly have its impact on the development of young minds. As a result of above stated developments, the enhancement will be followed in educational system and along with joyfulness from the achieved results in science, the achievements of the youth will one more time call us as the children of this holy land to be more responsible and do whatever we are capable of doing in order to contribute to the development and nourishment of our country. The goal of my article is not only counting the achievements made in education sphere, but also to highlight the current problems and disadvantages in this spheres and offer several effective and positive mechanisms which will serve as solutions to those problems. It is known that nurturing ideal person demands not only being smart from parents and tutors, but also constant personal development and enhancement. Moreover, the irresponsibility of some parents are causing severe negative impacts on the nature and mind of their children. In the time globalization where social media is everywhere, wrong and improper information and cults are searching for new victims, incorrect control of leisure time of children by their parents is causing fatal consequences such as children being connected to some terrifying flows and cults. For the sake of example, I have many times witnessed the situation where several youngsters gather in internet club and instead of effective usage of the web, they discuss some improper topics using very bad and unacceptable language for their age. And it is very sad to know that some of them are being there avoiding school classes. Fighting against such things require every one of use to fully understand our social duties. In my opinion, children under the age of 15 years old should be restricted from the access to such kind of places and internal control should be reinforced. It is important to note that the fact that in any typical class of today’s classes there are about 35-40 pupils studying in a single classroom which I consider to negatively impact the quality of their education. Because, today's children are more self-aware, more knowledge-demanding than yesterday. They all should be attached individually and the overall mental and physical condition should be taken into consideration. It can be easily seen the cases of pupils going beyond standards of self-behavior (Deviant behavior in the language of psychologists) in middle schools nowadays. This kind of incident is caused by the lack of knowledge about biologic growth, irresponsibility of medical staff in the educational enterprises, especially, lack of proper literature about biologic and sexual maturity for teenagers and last but not least, lack of parental knowledge about physical and psychological growth. Making youth achieve greatness, understanding the truth (self-awareness and self-consciousness) and moreover, developing the feeling of patriotism are prime goals of today's society. Because, nothing can overcome the person with clear mind and pure spirit. And in this case, mental condition plays a very important role. Our great ancestor, wise Jaloliddin Rumi compared the body of a person to a horse and his mentality to the cavalcade. That is why I consider it be a necessity to organize modules teaching the importance of mental health for school graduates.

It is very sad to see the suicide rates to skyrocket in recent years compared to past. Modern psychologists blindly arguing that the main the reason for increase in suicide rates is economic immaturity. But reality is often disappointing. The real reason behind the mental crisis is problems in their mental conditions. Illiteracy of parents, their lack of proper knowledge and important skills necessary to nurturing children, in one word, the fact that they are no longer reading and self-developing is causing such terrible and terrifying incidents. "We talk a lot about changing the mindset and overall outlook of people, enhancing their level of adequacy and literacy. But isn't it a book which is the most basic yet the most influential method in doing so? I am sure that without a book, we cannot achieve a better future. There is no future of a person nor a nation which does not read a book".

In this case, our respected president Shavkat Mirziyayev signed an order about "Enhancing the system of printing and distributing book products, developing and innovating the sphere of book reading" which fully covers the importance of above stated arguments about books. Providing the implementations of the order of the President in January 12th, 2017 about: “Enhancing the system of printing and distributing book products, developing and innovating the sphere of book reading” and decision in September 13th, 2017 about: “Improving the system of book-printing and distribution, complex methods and means in enhancing the effectiveness of book reading” require encouraging the citizens of our country, especially the youth to reading more books.

Reference:

- 1.Sh. Mirziyayev, 2016, speech from conference about “Provision of social stability, keeping the pure value of our sacred religion is the requirement of the current time”
- 2.J.Rumi, 1999, “Spiritual East” Print.
- 3.Sh.Mirziyayev, 2017, “We see our great future with our noble and courage nation” , “Uzbekistan” page 114
- 4.“ Spiritual enlightenment” newspaper, February 21st, 2018