

THE PROPERTIES OF ONLINE LESSONS IN EDUCATING ENGLISH AS A FOREIGN LANGUAGE

ABDURASULOVA NILUFAR ABDUSALIM QIZI

Teacher, Uzbekistan State World Languages University,
Foreign language and literature, Tashkent, Uzbekistan

ABSTRACT:

This article gives the highlights of online lessons, the contrasts among online, and offline lessons in showing English as a foreign language. The favorable circumstances and weaknesses of online and offline lessons in instructing English are depicted here. They are considered as current techniques for instructing English including such rules as inspiration, the nature of the view of the material, comprehension of discourse, conquering the language obstruction, and development of the lesson.

KEYWORDS: Online, offline/traditional, zoom, motivation, perception, communicate, practical application, advantage, distracted, frequent.

INTRODUCTION:

As of late, innovation and everything identified with it have been growing unbelievably rapidly. Because of this, it is not, at this point important to venture out from the home to gain proficiency with the language. All things considered, presently you can learn English online as opposed to going to classes. In any case, we as a whole realize that advancements don't generally work. For instance, there are numerous English applications for your telephone. However, you will always be unable to learn and communicate in English utilizing them. The most extreme is to learn new words and rules. You can learn English both online through Zoom and traditional. Both of these techniques work. Concentrating with a decent instructor and utilizing a successful approach, you will learn English paying little mind to the type of study. ¶ Nonetheless, how your classes are held (online or offline/traditional) influences the adequacy of the exercises, and along these lines the time that should be spent on learning. In any case, we as a whole realize that advancements don't generally work. For instance, there are numerous English applications for your telephone. Yet, you will always be unable to take in English and talk from them. The most extreme is to learn new words and rules. Is Zoom preparing truly powerful? In this article, I will contrast online versus traditional picking up agreeing with eight rules that straightforwardly influence the pace of progress in learning English. Subsequently, you will comprehend:

- What type of preparation is more viable?
- Which preparing choice is appropriate for you, and how best to consider contingent upon your circumstance?
- How does the type of preparation influence productivity?

Before we think about these types of learning, I need to feature 2 significant focuses. 1. In this article, we think about the cutting edge strategy for educating English. By instructing (just as traditional exercises and through Zoom), I don't mean a customary technique, where an understudy concentrates from course books/slides, finishes composed tasks or tests, and the instructor talks legitimately in the study hall. Because of such preparation, you gain just hypothetical information, and not create aptitudes. Accordingly, this strategy is incapable. We will consider classes dependent on a cutting edge, powerful system for showing English, where the accentuation is on the useful utilization of the English language: Development of talking abilities; Understanding the standards as opposed to learning through repetition; Development of listening aptitudes 80% of such classes are practice, and just 20% are the investigation of the hypothesis (rules). 2. You can learn English both online through Zoom and in a traditional. Both of these techniques work. Concentrating with a decent educator and utilizing a compelling strategy, you will learn English paying little mind to the type of study. Nonetheless, how your classes are held (online or offline/traditional) influences the adequacy of the exercises, and in this manner the time that should be spent on learning. I have chosen eight rules that will assist us in looking at the adequacy of these two types of training. Inside the system of the accompanying measures, we will analyze the viability of conventional and online classes.

1. Ability To Learn (Motivation):

Inspiration is consistently significant when you begin exploring new territory. Particularly when learning English. Everybody has their own and is communicated in the objective that you need to accomplish on account of your insight into the language:

- New work
- Moving to another nation
- Going an extended get-away or a meeting
- Education abroad
- Personal turn of events

Your exercises should keep you propelled. Something else, in the event, that it vanishes, you will stop classes, in this manner crossing out all that you have learned before. Live Activities: By rehearsing live with a tradition of individuals, you see their improvement, which motivates you to rehearse. Furthermore, none of us jumps at the chance to be more regrettable than others, so you won't have any desire to linger behind your cohorts. Your current circumstance impacts you more than you might suspect. Online realizing: When you are up close and personal with an instructor, you have nobody to coordinate. Just you and your instructor can keep you roused. To make up for this, you can go to discussion clubs or convey over the Internet with various individuals who are likewise learning English or have just arrived at a level over yours.

2. The Quality Of Perception Of The Material.

It has been demonstrated that the adequacy of observation increments fundamentally when you are completely centered around what you are doing. Offline/traditional lessons: When you come to class, there is no interruption and the climate is learning, so it is simpler for you to center. Here, nobody will ring your doorbell, go into life with a dire inquiry, and so on Every one of your contemplations and consideration is busy with English. You are centered around this, and, subsequently, all data will be better invested in your mind. What's more, it is a lot simpler for the instructor to hold your consideration and "return" you to the exercise on the off chance that you are occupied in conventional exercises. Internet Learning: When you study online, you learn at home, where there are numerous interruptions: your friends and family, family unit tasks, and a loosening up the climate. Frequently, while doing online, individuals are likewise occupied with different exercises or are continually diverted, so the viability of such exercises may diminish.

3. Right Pronunciation:

Who needs to communicate in English accurately and flawlessly? Everybody. All things considered, elocution influences the comprehension of your discourse by others. Offline/traditional lessons: When the instructor hears your discourse legitimately, it is simple for the educator to address some unacceptable sounds and right your elocution. Hearing a slip-up in your discourse, the educator will promptly address you, and you will begin talking effectively. Subsequently, you don't need to relearn later and right missteps in articulation. Online picking up: Chatting on Zoom/telephone isn't equivalent to offline/traditional. Now and then the association is poor, or there is foundation clamor in the room where you are examining. As a result of these impedances, the educator may not hear that you articulate a few sounds mistakenly or committed an error in some word. What's more, appropriately, it won't generally address your errors.

4. Comprehension Of Speech:

If you need to convey and comprehend various individuals, the more you impart and tune in to huge individuals, the simpler it will be for you to comprehend the discourse of new individuals. All things considered, every one of us has one's way, speed, and volume of discourse. Offline/traditional Activities: In a traditional, you need to convey and tune in to various individuals. During the exercise, you continually change two by two and in one exercise you have the opportunity to chat with five or eight individuals. Subsequently, you figure out how to see diverse discourse by ear and adjust to it more without any problem. Online learning: Since you just speak with your educator, you will very rapidly become accustomed to their style of discourse. Furthermore, the English instructor has amazing articulation and attempts to talk such that you can comprehend. Hence, you may have a few issues understanding English when speaking with others.

5. Defeating The Language Barrier:

The language hindrance is the dread of communicating in English. Some of the time even individuals who know English very well can't talk on account of this dread. The most ideal approach to conquer the language obstruction is to speak with various individuals. Traditional learning: While rehearsing in a traditional, you have to converse with various individuals. If you feel humiliated in a discussion with the principal, second, third individual, at that point by conversing with five-eight new individuals, you can dispose of the shame and dread and start to feel great in discussion with outsiders. Online classes: You will become acclimated to just your educator rapidly. Consequently, you will start to feel great speaking with him. At the point when you need to speak with others, you may have a language hindrance, since you are not used to speaking with somebody other than your instructor.

6. Number Of Speaking Practice:

Discussion practice is the principal segment of your classes. To figure out how to communicate in English, you need to rehearse a great deal. Offline/traditional learning: This sort of learning includes a ton of conversational practice as the meetings are longer and more incessant. For instance, our standard traditional plan incorporates four hours out of each week. Since you are in a traditional and are continually evolving accomplices, you can undoubtedly talk for such a long time and not become weary of it. Online classes: You will in all likelihood think that it's hard to concentrate independently with an instructor for three hours all at once. Furthermore, it is genuinely hard to sit before the PC this time. Hence, such classes generally most recent 90 minutes, appropriately, incorporate less talking practice.

7. Singularity Of The Program

The preparation program is significant: if you concentrate randomly, you will get befuddled about the material and there will be no advancement in your learning. Live Learning: In bunch exercises, your program will incorporate general/mainstream word records and punctuation (for a particular level). In the learning cycle, you will experience the themes that you will require in your day by day life: family, pastimes, appearance, work, home, in a store, in an eatery, travel, and so forth. Online classes: Here you have no limitations. Is it true that you are a specialist, legal advisor, or bookkeeper? Do you speak with unfamiliar accomplices? At that point, you can request that the instructor draw up a program particularly for you and remember for its explicit arrangements of themes that you will require. Something else, request that the educator discloses to you a point that you didn't comprehend. Significant: You can consider explicit points when you have dominated the essential subjects. There is no reason for realizing "how to direct calls" if you can't discuss yourself or your side interest.

8. Development Of The Lesson:

Their adequacy legitimately relies upon how your classes are organized. Both online and offline/traditional learning can be in an incorrect manner. "Customary (offline/traditional) learning": With the correct approach, the instructor clarifies the material and controls the exercises, revises the slip-ups of the understudies. In the study hall, it is you who talks the vast majority of the classes, rehearsing the material shrouded by and by in your discourse. Internet Learning: Zoom exercises can transform into well-disposed discussions. You should comprehend that classes will be in classes. Your educator ought to get ready for them and follow a particular program, not simply visit with you about how your day went. Every one of your discoursed ought to be pointed toward merging the standards that you passed in class. I need to take note that online classes have a few favorable circumstances that are not identified with productivity, however, they can't be disregarded.

RESULTS AND DISCUSSIONS:

There are a few advantages of online classes.1. It's simpler to save time for learning. At the point when you begin learning English, you have to incorporate it into your day by day schedule. When taking an English course, you should be prepared to change your typical timetable. All things considered, you should come to classes, in any event, three times each week. Online learning is more adaptable. You don't have to go anyplace. You simply need to open your PC, and you can rehearse anyplace, whenever.2. Classes online employing Zoom are less expensive. By examining online, your instructor, as you, doesn't have to go anyplace or search for an extraordinary study hall. Thusly, the expense of such classes is lower than that of live preparation. What is more powerful: internet preparation or conventional lessons? I might want to draw your consideration: Both strategies work. You can learn English both online and offline/traditional. Be that as it may, offline/traditional classes are more successful than online preparing and have the accompanying focal points:

- You see others' prosperity and that rouses you.
- In class, nothing occupies you, and you are centered around learning English.
- The instructor will consistently hear some unacceptable articulation and right it.
- You impart and tune in to various individuals, building up your listening aptitudes.
- More talking practice.
- You can without much of a stretch beat the language obstruction, as you speak with various individuals, and you are not becoming accustomed to the conversationalist.

Simultaneously, online (Zoom) classes likewise have their focal points:

- The occasion to concentrate as indicated by an individual program.
- You can rehearse anyplace, whenever.
- The expense of such classes is lower.

CONCLUSION:

The highlights of utilizing the web lessons in encouraging English as a foreign language are examined in this article. The focal points and hindrances of online and customary exercises in training English are portrayed here. They are considered present-day techniques for training English including such models as inspiration, the nature of the view of the material, comprehension of discourse, beating the language boundary, and development of the exercise. At last, anybody can pick what type of training to pick. There are a few circumstances to consider: You need to take courses with a compelling strategy. If in your city there are courses in a technique like the one we considered, and you have the chance (time/cash) to concentrate in a traditional, I encourage you to pick this specific type of study. Since it will permit you to learn English in a more limited time. You live in a humble community (in another nation) where there are no comparative courses. Zoom lessons with a decent educator and a viable system are reasonable for you. You continually go on excursions for work, take a shot at a particular timetable. On the off chance that you don't possess energy for offline/traditional English classes, at that point, online classes will likewise be an incredible answer for you. Regardless, if you accurately learn English, you can learn it while rehearsing, both conventional (offline) and online.

REFERENCES:

- 1) Bouton C, Garth RY. 1983. Students in learning groups: Active learning through conversation. San Francisco.: chap 8.
- 2) Clarke, D. F. 1991. The negotiated syllabus: What is it and how is it likely to work? Applied Linguistics, 12, pp.13-28.
- 3) Collier, Virginia P., & Thomas, Wayne, P. 1999. Making U. S. schools effective for English language learners.
- 4) Cook, Vivian. 1996. Second Language Learning and Language Teaching. London: Arnold.
- 5) Davidson, Chris. 1994. Integrating ESL into the mainstream: An Australian perspective. In A. Blackledge, (Ed.), Teaching Bilingual Children pp. 83-99. Staffordshire: Trentham Books Ltd.
- 6) Dewey, John. 1990. The School and Society and The Child and the Curriculum. Chicago: University of Chicago Press.
- 7) Dickens, P., & Woods, E. 1988. Some criteria for the development of communicative grammar tasks. TESOL Quarterly, 22, pp.623-646.
- 8) McEnerney K. Cooperative learning as a strategy in clinical laboratory science education. 1989; 2(2): pp.88-89.
- 9) Medgyes, P. 1986. Queries from a communicative teacher. ELT Journal, 40, pp.107-112.
- 10) Munby, J. 1978. Communicative Syllabus Design. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press.
- 11) Murray, I. 1983. New approaches: Old problems. British Journal of Language Teaching, 27(3), pp.135-142.
- 12) Olsen, Roger E. W-B., & Kagan, Spencer. 1992. About cooperative learning. In C. Kessler, (Ed.), Cooperative Language Learning. pp.1-30. Englewood Cliffs, NJ: Prentice-Hall.
- 13) Nunan, David. 1989. Designing Tasks for the Communicative Classroom. New York: Cambridge University Press.