INTRODUCTION:

The 21st century has opened a new page in human development. The world community has embarked on the path of building a high-level and all-round progressive society. Now the period demanded that the general culture of the population be at a high level. Therefore, today the advanced society is on the way to raising the cultural level and tastes of the whole population. In advanced societies, it is socio-cultural activity that serves this purpose. After gaining our sovereignty, the First President I.A. Karimov began to pay attention to the youth at the level of state policy. The social, economic, legal and organizational conditions have been created for their formation and development in all respects. We all know that the foundation of civil society is public organizations. The introduction of democratic principles in the life of society takes place through the participation of certain social strata and groups. By itself, young people play an important role among them. Public organizations operating in the country, based on their goals and objectives, contribute to meeting the comprehensive needs of young people. Article 56 of the Constitution of the Republic of Uzbekistan states that trade unions, political parties, societies of scientists, women's, veterans' and youth organizations, creative associations, mass movements and other associations of citizens registered in the Republic of Uzbekistan shall be recognized as public associations.[2]

In particular, the Mahalla Charitable Foundation and its local branches organize various spiritual and educational activities and events among young people living in the makhallas to bring them up as spiritually mature people and support children from low-income families. The Soglom Avlod Uchun International Non-Governmental Charitable Foundation In educating children and youth on the requirements of a healthy lifestyle, the International Fund "Ecosan" in the formation of environmental knowledge in youth, the Fund for the Development of Children's Sports of Uzbekistan in accordance with the state program of training in the country to shape the physical and mental health of the younger generation. They make an effective contribution to the absorption of love. [p. 3.28]

In order to increase the role of youth in society and their social support, a Memorandum of Understanding was signed between the Federation of Trade Unions of Uzbekistan and the Youth Union of Uzbekistan. It outlined the work to be carried out in cooperation on the implementation of the tasks set out in the Decree of the President "On increasing the effectiveness of state youth policy and support the activities of the Youth Union of Uzbekistan." In order to improve the structure of the Federation of Trade Unions to work with young people, the Youth Union of the Federation was established and its chairman was elected. The chairman of the youth association was given the status of advisor to the chairman of the Federation of Trade Unions of Uzbekistan on youth issues. In the same way, the Republican Council of Trade Unions and the Regional Trade Union Confederation established a Youth Union, the chairman of which was given the status of advisor to the chairman. This cooperation is guaranteed to be useful and important for young people. It means that any public organization and public association It is no exaggeration to say that it gives great courage and strength to young people

One of the largest public organizations in the country today is the Youth Union of Uzbekistan, which unites more than 8 million young people. The main goal of the union is to deepen the democratic, political and economic reforms in the country, peace in society. and strengthening solidarity, involving Uzbekistan in the process of joining the developed countries of the world and ensuring effective protection of the rights, freedoms and legitimate interests of the younger generation, raising the spiritual and professional level of young people, helping them realize their intellectual and creative potential , to form young people who have their own vital position and firm belief, who are able to take a worthy place in the life of society, to be a decisive force and support in the process of reforming the country, their political culture, legal raising literacy and legal awareness; educating young people, especially non-organized youth, in the spirit of morality and military patriotism, instilling in them a sense of historical memory, national pride and identity, involvement in events, respect for national and universal values; protection of the rights and legitimate interests of young people, support their aspirations to acquire modern professions, involvement in entrepreneurial activities; to support talented young people, create conditions for them to realize their creative and intellectual potential and involve them in scientific activities; formation of a healthy lifestyle, ecological culture among young people, especially non-organized youth, wide involvement of them in regular physical culture and sports; to protect young people, especially non-organized youth, from the influence of religious extremist and other destructive organizations, from the negative influences and threats coming from abroad under the guise of "popular culture", to help prevent and combat delinquency and crime among young people, etc.

On August 3, 2017, President of the Republic of Uzbekistan Shavkat Miromonovich Mirziyoyev met with representatives of the creative intelligentsia of the country. The sides exchanged views on topical issues related to the development of national culture, literature and art, ways to address them, the important tasks facing creative associations and government agencies in this regard. The main reformist role of the state in the process of radical change in Uzbekistan was mainly reflected in the process of forming the legal framework of civil society. In order to ensure the independence of public organizations in the country, as well as their transformation into an important institution of civil society, the state adopted a conceptual policy program "From a strong state to a strong civil society", which became a key principle of society development. The resolution of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan "On the introduction of an improved system of remuneration of employees of state cultural institutions and state archives and strengthening their financial incentives" was adopted. According to the resolution, further improvement of the system of remuneration and material support of employees of state cultural institutions and state archives financed from the State Budget of the Republic of Uzbekistan, aimed at ensuring a decent assessment of their creative skills, creating incentives for continuous professional development [4] Today, our foreign partners see our young people and admire them in every way.

They talk to our young people and wish that we could see and work with such young people in other countries, who have mastered their profession and can speak foreign languages fluently. In short, they appreciate the potential of the youth of Uzbekistan. Today, the words of our foreign partners, "The eyes of your youth and children are burning," can be heard at every step.
